Q: How to run the jquery code with specified interval Hi i have a code like this `$(function(){ $("#status").fadeIn().fadeOut(1000); });` what i want is after 1 second the #status will display a message randomly like this my website is with wordpress A: This is a perfect use case for `setTimeout`. `setTimeout(function(){ $("#status").fadeIn().fadeOut(1000); }, 1000);` A: Use `setTimeout`: `setTimeout(function() { $("#status").fadeIn().fadeOut(1000); }, 1000);` Or immediately set to false the animation: `$("#status").stop(true).fadeIn();` Note the `stop()` method. If you set animation to false, the `fadeIn()` and `fadeOut()` will immediately get rid of any animation for the element and add it to the queue. So it's better to use `stop(true)` to prevent starting this animation immediately. Q: What is the difference between using 'no more than' and 'less than' in grammatical terms? To say, when discussing money, how much can someone spend on a given amount of money, He can spend no more than 1 dollar per month and He can spend less than 1 dollar per month. But how are they different and what situations are more appropriate for using one or the other? A: According to the Cambridge Advanced Learner's Dictionary, more is used for things that are lesser. Expressing how much is involved in something. (of a number of things, ideas, or people) less than something (or two or more). Less is used for things which are higher. (of a number of things, ideas, or people) more than something (or two or more). Less is frequently the first or only word in the sentence. Examples :
